

WANDERING SEKEAD STONE

---

Item (stone), very rare (requires attunement)

Inspired by @moleculardrugs on TikTok

Designed by Kayla Bayens your friendly DM Dalliance

A palm sized black stone cut into a drop shape, magic has been used to etch sigils of power into the very stone over and over again forming shifting images with its depths. It is said each family of a secret organization specialized in making one such stone for their unique needs.

As a bonus action, you and one additional willing creature can magically teleport up to 50 feet away to an unoccupied space that you can see. All equipment and items that you are wearing or carrying come with you. Once used this feature can not be used again until after finishing a short rest.

Additionally this item has 3 charges that can be used in the following ways:

- 1 charge can be spent to save your current location in the gem's memory, you can later spend charges to teleport back to this location. A saved location can be used in conjunction with a teleportation spell you yourself casts. Once you have teleported back to the location it is wiped from the gem's memory. You can also spend a short rest to wipe a stored location from the gem's memory. This charge does not regain until the location has been teleported back to or wiped from the gem's memory.
- 2 charges can be spent to cast teleportation circle.
- 3 charges can be spent to cast plane shift.

You can choose to crush the gem, destroying it. Doing so permanently etches a teleportation circle centered on you that can be memorized for use with the teleportation circle spell.
